ANNUAL REPORT.

THE year that has just closed has not been unlike that of previous years in the history of the Home. Affairs have moved along smoothly, and to the general satisfaction of all. The purpose of the managers to reduce the expenses as much as might be consistent with the comfort of the inmates and the general interests of the institution has been heartily seconded by the matron ; and the success has been very striking, as the Treasurer's report will show. And this has been accomplished without in any degree lessening the comfort of the inmates.

It is the more necessary to practise strict economy, because the great and long-continued depression in business has so reduced the resources of many of our friends that they have felt compelled to withhold their payments, although their interest in the charity is by no means lost. It is to be hoped that better times will soon come ; so that this work which is so favorably known shall not be allowed to suffer for want of means to carry it on.

There have been seventeen inmates during the year. One who had for eighteen years been a resident in our Home, and whose face had been familiar to all the managers, passed on in January. Mrs. Margaret Withers died at the age of ninety-two. By her gentle manners and ready acquiescence in the rules of the Home, she made friends of the visitors, and did much by her example to smooth the paths which might otherwise have been rough to the feet. Her daughter, Mrs. Cobb, of Woonsocket, wrote a note full of grateful feeling to the managers, for the watchful care and tender interest which had made the last days of her mother peaceful and happy.

We desire to emphasize the fact, that our purpose is to make our Home a place to which those who are dependent in their old age upon the charity of friends, who are themselves straitened, may come, with the assurance that they will find here what else they could not secure. It is not intended to be a refuge to which persons in comfortable circumstances may bring their relatives, because they desire to get them off their hands, at as small expense as possible. Nor do we mean to accept those whose hard, unyielding, and disagreeable temper makes their company undesirable to their friends; because, with such, the harmony of the Home is marred, and the comfort of the inmates is destroyed. If we would have a quiet and comfortable home, we must see to it that no one shall, by a selfish spirit and perverse temper, interfere with the reasonable rules of the place, and cause annoyance to the whole household.

In the report for last year, the hope was expressed that the time might soon come when we should be able to do something for children,—an object very near to the hearts of some of the managers; indeed, it was one of the avowed objects in the foundation of the institution. We had not long to wait before a feasible way was found to do something in this direction. Miss Balch, a teacher in the Yeoman Street school, had noticed the need of help in the care of children, for mothers who went out to work by the day, and conceived the idea of a nursery, to which their children might be brought in the morning, to be cared for during the day, and to be returned at night, thus giving the women entire freedom from solicitude while at their daily toil. So pressing seemed the need, that she took a house on Albany Street, and undertook the task of meeting this want, trusting to the liberality of the charitable to enable her to meet the expense.

To this she added a Kindergarten, and employed a suitable person to amuse and interest the children. Beside this, she provided a good wholesome dinner for each child. It may also be added, that she has furnished a neat dress for them to wear while in the nursery, so that a visitor cannot fail to be attracted by their tidy appearance. To help carry on this most excellent charity, one hundred dollars was appropriated from our funds; and it is believed that the appropriation was a wise one. We shall be glad if our circumstances will permit us to continue this help,—certainly, while it is under the charge of so judicious and self-sacrificing a lady as Miss Balch.

We have gratefully to acknowledge the kindness of the friends of the Home, as shown in their contributions for its needs. A particular enumeration of these gifts is appended to the report.

The Sunday services have been continued through the year, under the kind direction of our friend, Mr. E. B. Reynolds. To him, and to those who have assisted in these services, we return most hearty thanks ; nor would we allow to pass unnoticed the welcome assistance of Miss Louisa M. Libby, and Mr. Nazro and family, who have aided in the musical part of the service during the year. Dr. Streeter also has held us under continued obligation, by his generous kindness in rendering medical service freely to the inmates.

Our young friends, Misses James, Daniels, Edmunds, Weston, Cowdry, Thaxter, have made their presence felt like angels' visits, as from time to time they have come to read to the inmates.

On the whole, we have to report a reasonably prosperous year. The friends of the Home have been kind ; the matron has quietly and faithfully performed her duties ; the inmates have been comfortable and happy. As we survey the past, and look forward to the future, we may thank God and take courage, believing that if we work faithfully and trustingly, God will give the desired harvest of comfort and peace.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

IN presenting this report, the Treasurer would call attention to the fact that his account includes all the bills payable during the year ending April 1, 1878, and the following items paid on account of the last quarter of the preceding year : viz.,

Gas, . . . . .	$39.69
Supplies, . . . . .	335.44
Salaries, . . . . .	349.00
	$724.13

In comparing the relative cost of maintaining the Home for the years ending April 1, 1877, and April 1, 1878, he deducts this sum from the payments made within the year, the balance showing the actual expenses of the last year. From this comparison appended, it will appear that we have paid for our insurance sixty dollars ; have contributed to the nursery one hundred dollars ; and show a saving beside of more than five hundred dollars.

It is gratifying to be able to report the founding of two new funds. One was begun by the contribution of five hundred dollars from a friend who has shown her interest before in substantial ways, — Mrs. Thomas Adams. This fund has been appropriately named the Adams Fund. The other was a bequest from one who was a stranger, but whose character, so eloquently depicted by his and our friend, Mr. Franklin Williams, shows that he was no stranger to works of benevolence and love. We have named this the Gilbert S. May Fund, and shall use the income when needed for the general interests of the Home.

Besides these, we have received on account of bequest of C. B. Winn, Esq., one thousand dollars, which has been carried to the credit of the Adams Fund, the Lowell Fund, and the Investment Fund.

MR. REYNOLDS' REPORT.

THE undersigned, having been appointed a committee to undertake the pleasant duty of arranging for Sunday services at the Roxbury Home, would respectfully present the following report:—

With the present month will close the third year during which such services have been held. We are pleased to record of the past year, like its predecessors, no Sunday without its service. The persons engaged to officiate have never failed us; and no day was so unpropitious that friends did not come in to take part.

We note, as special occasions, the service in September, commemorative of the late Gilbert S. May, a benefactor to the institution; and a Thanksgiving service, held on the Sunday previous to that festival day. The first-named was largely attended; and the interesting address of Mr. Williams was printed, and copies furnished the "Home." The Thanksgiving service, though attended by few visitors, owing to the storm; yet every inmate was present, save two, including one who has since "passed on."

Acknowledgments are due to Miss Libby, who has kindly taken charge of the organ, and to the "Boston Home Journal," for a gratuitous announcement from week to week.

We feel more and more assured that Sunday services—no longer an experiment—result in much good to the institution.

Annexed is a list of those who have officiated, with engagements for the next three Sundays.

E. B. REYNOLDS.
